A Gripping Memoir of Survival, Success, and the Power of the Human Spirit

In this powerful and inspiring memoir, former Afghan refugee Fawaz Gerges shares his incredible journey from the war-torn streets of Kabul to the halls of the White House. Fawaz's story is one of resilience, determination, and the power of the human spirit to overcome adversity.

Fawaz was born in Kabul, Afghanistan, in 1980. His childhood was marked by the ongoing Soviet-Afghan War, which forced his family to flee their home and seek refuge in Pakistan. In Pakistan, Fawaz lived in a refugee camp for several years, where he witnessed firsthand the horrors of war and the plight of his fellow refugees.

Despite the challenges he faced, Fawaz never gave up on his dreams. He excelled in school and eventually won a scholarship to attend university in the United States. In the US, Fawaz continued to work hard and eventually founded his own successful business. He also became a tireless advocate for refugees and immigrants, using his platform to speak out against injustice and to promote peace and understanding.

In 2015, Fawaz was invited to the White House by President Barack Obama to share his story and to discuss the importance of refugee resettlement. Fawaz's visit to the White House was a powerful moment for him, and it solidified his belief in the power of the American Dream.
