In the wake of the deadly Unite the Right rally in Charlottesville, Virginia, in 2017, it became impossible to ignore the resurgence of white nationalism in the United States. This dangerous ideology, which promotes the supremacy of the white race, has been on the rise for years, and it has found a home in the Trump administration.

One of the most influential white nationalists in the Trump administration is Stephen Miller, a senior advisor to the president. Miller is a close confidant of Trump, and he has played a key role in shaping the administration's immigration and bFree Download security policies.

In his book, Stephen Miller, Donald Trump, and the White Nationalist Agenda, author David Neiwert exposes the chilling agenda of this dangerous ideology. Neiwert provides a deep dive into Miller's background and his ties to white nationalist groups, and he shows how Miller's views have influenced Trump's policies.

Neiwert's book is a must-read for anyone who wants to understand the threat of white nationalism in the United States. It is a wake-up call to the dangers of this ideology and a call to action to fight against it.

Stephen Miller: A White Nationalist in the White House

Stephen Miller was born in 1985 to Jewish parents. He grew up in a wealthy family in Santa Monica, California. Miller attended Duke University, where he studied political science. While at Duke, Miller became involved in conservative politics. He worked for the College Republicans and wrote for the conservative student newspaper, The Chronicle.

After graduating from Duke, Miller went to work for Senator Jeff Sessions, a Republican from Alabama. Miller quickly rose through the ranks, and he eventually became Sessions' top policy advisor. In 2016, Miller joined the Trump campaign. He played a key role in developing Trump's immigration and bFree Download security policies.

Miller is a white nationalist. He believes that the white race is superior to other races. He has said that "immigration is a form of ethnic cleansing" and that "the United States is a white country." Miller's views have had a major influence on Trump's policies. Trump has implemented a number of policies that are designed to restrict immigration and to make it more difficult for people of color to live in the United States.

The White Nationalist Agenda

White nationalism is a dangerous ideology that promotes the supremacy of the white race. White nationalists believe that the white race is superior to other races and that the United States is a white country. They want to create a white ethnostate, a country where only white people live.

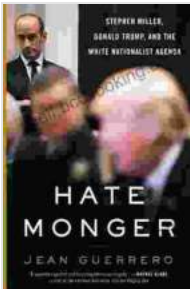

White nationalism is a threat to American democracy. It is a racist and hateful ideology that has no place in our society. We must all stand up against white nationalism and fight for a more just and equitable world.

Call to Action

We must all stand up against white nationalism. We must speak out against racism and hate speech. We must support organizations that are fighting against white nationalism. And we must vote for candidates who will fight for a more just and equitable world.

Together, we can defeat white nationalism and build a better future for all.
